

The Meeting Agenda

A written agenda delineates the discussion topics, presenters, time allotments, purpose, objectives, related information, and processes for decision making. Agendas also help note takers record accurate meeting minutes. Distribute agendas in advance of meetings so that attendees can come prepared. Stay focused.

The sample agenda below can be used to document quick, routine meetings between principals and afterschool program directors; it focuses on interventions that align the learning day for students in afterschool programs.
